Japanese Education System

For your information, Japanese education system is known as one of the world's best education system.

Japanese people are known for their intelligence, strong health, politeness and wellness.

Teaching in this country is about the quality, not quantity.

Here is the important point to learn. There are no building cleaners in Japanese schools. Students are divided into teams to deal with all manners of keeping their school clean.

Japanese Students keep themselves very neat and clean, they eat healthy and balanced meals.

They spend their own time and efforts for cleaning, sweeping, mopping and wiping the classrooms floors and chalkboards.

It's an amazing team building activity, which teach them to work in a team and help each other and makes them respect their own work and work for others.

Japanese students almost never repeat their grades in primary, lower secondary or secondary school.

The Japanese say that if you teach what you learn, you will remember that for about 90 percent.
