Neighbours

“A man is not a believer if he fills his stomach while his neighbour is hungry”

To understand the duties a person has to their neighbour, it is important to first understand who a neighbor is.

The neighbour includes the people who lives nearby, or connected to your home.

It also includes the people who live in near and far houses.

It does not matter if your neighbour is your friend or enemy, poor or rich and belongs to any religion; a foreigner and a migrant, or a national; you have few duties towards them.

1. Kind treatment.
2. Sharing food.
3. Visiting them during sickness, sad moments, and happy moments.
4. Not causing any harm.
5. Exchanging gifts/greetings.

It is clear that, every single deed with good intentions of the believer counts near the Almighty, and will get its reward eventually.

I will conclude this topic by saying to myself and to all brothers and sisters that if our neighbours are happy “Almighty God is happy”.

Thank you and have a nice day
